1 OVERVIEW

1.1 INTRODUCTION

1.1.1 This Policy seeks to provide information on the specific statutory whistleblower protection available under the Australian law, including:

- How an individual can make an Eligible Disclosure (i.e, a disclosure that qualifies for whistleblower protection);
- Responsibilities of an individual who makes a disclosure;
- Responsibilities of Eligible Recipients who receive a disclosure;
- Whistleblower protection available;
- How Citi investigate Eligible Disclosures;
- Fair treatment and support of individuals who makes, or are mentioned in an Eligible Disclosure.

1.2 POLICY PRINCIPLES

1.2.1 An individual is eligible for whistleblower protection under Australian law if they make a disclosure that qualifies for protection. The aim of whistleblower protection is to safeguard individuals who disclose misconduct so that they can do so safely, securely, and with the comfort that they will be protected and supported.

1.2.2 This Policy seeks to provide information on the specific statutory whistleblower protection available under the Australian law, including:

- How an individual can make an Eligible Disclosure (i.e, a disclosure that qualifies for whistleblower protection);
- Responsibilities of an individual who makes a disclosure;
- Responsibilities of an individual who receives a disclosure;
- Whistleblower protection available;
- How Citi investigate Eligible Disclosures;
- Fair treatment and support of individuals who makes, or are mentioned in an Eligible Disclosure.

1.2.3 Disclosures that do not qualify for protection under Australian law are not covered by this Policy.

1.2.4 Refer to the Citi Code of Conduct, the Employees Complaints Policy and the Escalation Policy for information about the general protection Citi provides to individuals irrespective of whether statutory whistleblower protection is applicable.

1.3 KEY REQUIREMENTS

- 1.3.1 This Policy addresses the requirements under Section 1317AI of the Corporations Act 2001 to have, and make available a prescribed whistleblower policy.

1.4 COVERED TIER 4 LAWS AND REGULATION

- 1.4.1 Publication ID/Name(s) – 154101 - Corporations Act - Whistleblower Protection
- 1.4.2 Citation(s) – Corporations Act 2001 Part 9.4AAA, RG 270, Taxation Administration Act 1953 Part IVD
- 1.4.3 Publication Summary - From 1 July 2019, the whistleblower protections in Part 9.4AAA the Corporations Act 2001 (Corporations Act) have been expanded to provide greater protections for whistleblowers who report misconduct about companies and company officers.

ASIC is responsible for enforcing the corporate sector whistleblower protection regime, including where a whistleblower may suffer detriment for alleging breaches of laws outside of ASIC's regulatory responsibilities.

The corporate sector whistleblower protection regime:

- a) Includes in the definition of whistleblower both current and former employees, officers, and contractors, as well as their spouses, dependents, and other relatives, and anonymous disclosures
- b) extends the protections to whistleblower reports that allege misconduct, an improper state of affairs or circumstances, or breach of financial sector law and all Commonwealth offences punishable by imprisonment of 12 months or more, though a report solely about a personal work-related grievance is not covered by the protections
- c) creates civil penalty provisions, and in addition to the existing criminal offences, for causing or threatening detriment to (or victimising) a whistleblower and for breaching a whistleblower's confidentiality
- d) Gives protections for whistleblowers in limited circumstances if they disclose to a journalist or parliamentarian after they have reported to ASIC or APRA their concerns about substantial and imminent danger to the health or safety of one or more people or to the natural environment or matters in the public interest after 90 days
- e) Provides whistleblowers with easier access to compensation and remedies if they suffer detriment, including protections from costs orders unless a court finds the claim to be vexatious or the whistleblower acted unreasonably, and
- f) Requires all public companies, large proprietary companies, and corporate trustees of registrable superannuation entities to have a whistleblower policy from 1 January 2020. The Corporations Act sets out at a high level what a whistleblower policy should contain. These are:
 - I. Information about the protections available to whistleblowers, including protections under the law

- II. Information about to whom disclosures that qualify for protection under the law may be made, and how they may be made. This will be important for whistleblowers to be sure of the company's arrangements, given that a company can authorise particular staff or third parties to receive disclosures from whistleblowers
- III. Information about how the company will support whistleblowers and protect them from detriment
- IV. Information about how the company will investigate disclosures that qualify for protection under the law. This will be important for whistleblowers to understand how their reports and their personal information will be handled during any investigation
- V. Information about how the company will ensure fair treatment of employees of the company who are mentioned in disclosures that qualify for protection under the law, or to whom such disclosures relate
- VI. Information about how the policy is to be made available to officers and employees of the company, and
- VII. Any matters prescribed by the regulations (no regulations have yet been prescribed).

ASIC also released Regulatory Guide 270 Whistleblower policies (RG 270) to help entities establish a whistleblower policy that complies with their legal obligations.

1.5 DISPENSATIONS AND WAIVERS

- 1.5.1 Dispensations and Waivers should be requested and approved in only exceptional circumstances. Absent such circumstances, employees are obligated to be in full compliance with all Policy Documents. Dispensations and Waivers must be approved and documented in accordance with the requirements set forth in the Policy Governance Standard.

1.6 EFFECTIVE DATE / TRANSITION PERIOD

- 1.6.1 This Policy is effective from 1 January 2020, and will be updated as and when required.

2 GOVERNANCE

2.1 BOARD APPROVAL

- 2.1.1 This Policy does not require approval by the Board of Directors, or subcommittees of the Board of Directors, of Citigroup Inc. and Citibank N.A. However, notice of its issuance and any subsequent revisions may be reported to the Board at the request of the Board or Citi Management. Subsidiary Board approvals may be required in local jurisdictions, or by other legal entities.
- 2.1.2 This Policy will be reviewed annually and presented to the SOoA and Citigroup Pty Limited (CPL) and Citigroup Global Markets Australia (CGMA) Boards for noting.

2.2 GOVERNANCE COMMITTEES

2.2.1 The relevant governance committee for this Policy is the governance committee for the Risk Categories on the cover page. The mapping of the Risk Categories to governance committee hierarchies is detailed in the Citi Governance Policy.

3.2 HOW TO MAKE A DISCLOSURE THAT QUALIFIES FOR PROTECTION

The Australian law provides protection to individuals who make disclosures about certain matters. It is important for an individual to be aware of how they can qualify for this protection.

To qualify for this protection, the individual must make an Eligible Disclosure.

An Eligible Disclosure is a disclosure that is:

- made by an Eligible Whistleblower, and
- about an Eligible Matter, and
- made directly to an Eligible Recipient,

Refer to Section 3.1.4, 3.1.5, 3.1.6 for definitions of the above terms.

Refer to Section 3.5 for details on protection available for Eligible Disclosures.

Disclosures can be made to the Citi Ethics Office, which is an Eligible Recipient, designated to receive whistleblower disclosures. Alternatively, an individual can also disclose a matter to other Eligible Recipients, as defined under Section 3.1.6.

Citi Ethics Office

The Citi Ethics Office is an Eligible Recipient designated by Citi to receive whistleblower disclosures. An individual is able to make a disclosure anonymously and/or confidentially to the Ethics Office 24 hours per day, seven days per week in multiple languages via the Citi Ethics Hotline or making an online website submission to the Ethics Office.

Information on how to access the Citi Ethics Hotline is available in the Citi Code of Conduct.

3.3 RESPONSIBILITIES OF INDIVIDUALS WHO MAKE A DISCLOSURE

The individual must understand how they can make an Eligible Disclosure and the protections available under this Policy.

Individuals are encouraged to seek independent legal advice if they are unsure how whistleblower protection applies under Australian law, or how it applies to their circumstance.

When making a disclosure, the individual must only tell the Eligible Recipient.

It is recommended the individual clarifies to the Eligible Recipient if they wish to make a disclosure anonymously or if they give their consent for their identity to be disclosed when the Eligible Recipient passes the disclosure to the Ethics Office (if the Eligible Recipient wasn't the Ethics Office) or when the Ethics Office pass the information to the appropriate investigator.

3.4 RESPONSIBILITIES OF ELIGIBLE RECIPIENTS WHO RECEIVE A DISCLOSURE

The eligible recipient must be aware that there are severe penalties under the Australian law for:

- disclosing the identity of an individual qualifying for protection, or disclosing information that is likely to identify the individual. Refer to Section 3.5.2 for exceptions to protection of anonymity and confidentiality, and
- causing or threatening detriment to an individual on the basis of a belief or suspicion that the individual or another person has made, proposes to make, or could make an Eligible Disclosure. Refer to Section 3.5.3 for Citi's policy on retaliation, harassment, and victimisation.

3.4.1 Anonymous disclosures

The eligible recipient must respect the individual's wishes to remain anonymous.

If an individual wants to remain anonymous, upon receiving an Eligible Disclosure, the Eligible Recipient must:

- refer the individual to read a copy of this policy (if they haven't already) and encourage the individual to contact the Citi Ethics Office directly; and
- the Eligible recipient must escalate the concern directly to the Citi Ethics Office but when doing so, the Eligible recipient must not provide the individual's name or other identifying information when escalating the concern, or to others.
- not disclose to others details of the content of the disclosure or the identity of the individual. The Ethics Office will perform its investigations on the matter, to the extent it can, based on the anonymous information provided. Any substantiation of matters, based on the anonymous disclosure, will be appropriately managed, following established internal processes.

If an individual does not provide their consent to their identity being disclosed, the Eligible Recipient is permitted to disclose their identity to a legal practitioner but only for the purposes of obtaining legal advice or legal representation about the disclosure.

3.4.2 Known Disclosures

Upon receiving an Eligible Disclosure, the Eligible Recipient must:

- Obtain the individual's consent that they can disclose the person's details to the Ethics Office when escalating the concern. It is recommended the Eligible Recipient obtains the consent, in writing, if the individual is agreeable to that.
- Escalate the concern directly to the Citi Ethics Office.
- Not disclose to others details of the content of the disclosure. The Ethics Office will perform its investigations on the matter. Any substantiation of matters, based on the disclosure, will be appropriately managed, following established internal processes.

3.4.3 Protection for the Eligible recipient

When an eligible recipient escalates a matter, they too become an eligible discloser themselves.

The eligible recipient must consider Section 3.2 and understand how they can also qualify for protection under Australian law.

3.5 WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTION AVAILABLE

The following whistleblower protections are available to an individual who makes an Eligible Disclosure from the time the disclosure is made.

3.5.1 General protections

- The individual is not subject to any civil, criminal or administrative liability (including disciplinary action) for making the disclosure. This protection does not grant immunity for any misconduct the individual has engaged in that is revealed in their disclosure;
- The individual has immunity from lawsuit from making the disclosure;
- No contractual or other remedy may be enforced, and no contractual or other right may be exercised, against the individual on the basis of the disclosure;
- Under circumstances prescribed under Section 1317AA of the Corporations Act 2001, if the disclosure is made to ASIC, APRA, or a prescribed Commonwealth authority, the information is not admissible in evidence against the individual in criminal proceedings or in proceedings for the imposition of a penalty, other than proceedings in respect of the falsity of the information.

3.5.2 Anonymous and confidential disclosure

An individual who qualifies for protection has the right to anonymity and confidentiality unless they consent to their identity being disclosed.

Statutory penalties apply to unauthorized disclosure of an individual's identity, if the individual qualifies for whistleblower protection. The individual may lodge a complaint by contacting the Citi Ethics Office, or alternatively, with a regulator, such as ASIC, APRA or the ATO, for investigation of a breach of anonymity.

A discloser can choose to remain anonymous while making a disclosure, over the course of the investigation and after the investigation is finalised. Citi however, may not be able to undertake an investigation if it is not able to contact the discloser.

This protection does not extend to disclosure of the discloser's identity to ASIC, APRA, a member of the Australian Federal Police; or a lawyer for the purpose of obtaining legal advice or legal representation in relation to the operation of the Australian law.

3.5.2.1 Disclosure of information to the Ethics Office for investigation

The information contained in a disclosure can be disclosed by an Eligible Recipient to the Ethics Office provided the information passed on:

- a) does not include the individual's identity; and
- b) does not include information that is likely to lead to their identification.

3.5.3 Protection from retaliation, harassment / victimisation

There are severe penalties under the Australian law for causing or threatening detriment³ to an individual for making or proposing to make an Eligible Disclosure.

Citi prohibits any form of retaliatory action against anyone who makes an Eligible Disclosure.

Retaliation is a serious issue and includes any adverse action taken because an employee has engaged in such activity. As part of any investigation, Citi respects the rights that are afforded under applicable laws and regulations to all parties related to the matter.

Allegations of retaliatory action, harassment, or victimization must be escalated to the Citi Ethics Office.

A person who retaliates against another individual for raising Concerns, or being involved in an investigation will be subject to action under the disciplinary procedure up to and including termination of employment or other relations with Citi.

3.6 HOW ELIGIBLE DISCLOSURES ARE INVESTIGATED

Citi believes it is essential an individual feels secure when raising a concern and encourages individuals to communicate their Concerns openly. Individuals may be interviewed as part of that investigation. All contacts and investigations are treated as confidentially as possible, consistent with the need to investigate the matter, subject to applicable laws and regulations,

³ Examples of detriment include but not limited to: dismissal of an employee, harassment or intimidation or discrimination, alter an individual's position or duties to their disadvantage, damage to a person's reputation, property, or other damage. Note that actions such as managing a discloser's unsatisfactory work performance is not considered to be detrimental conduct, if the action is in line with Citi's performance management framework.

and conducted in a timely manner. Investigators must only disclose information on a need-to-know basis and must otherwise safeguard and take appropriate steps to prevent the unauthorised disclosure of such confidential information.

Upon receiving a disclosure, the Citi Ethics Office will assign the matter to the appropriate function for investigation, documentation, and reporting in accordance with its investigation procedures.

An assessment of whether a disclosure qualifies for statutory whistleblower protection, and a risk assessment of detriment against a discloser is performed with an assessment outcome advised to the investigator where appropriate. Appropriate actions will be undertaken to reduce potential detriment to the discloser.

The investigator will contact the discloser (if the matter is not anonymous) throughout the investigation process to assist with the investigation.

The discloser will be sent an acknowledgement after the disclosure is received, and will be informed by the investigator once the investigation is concluded. The discloser will not be provided with the outcome where it is inappropriate to do so.

Findings from investigations will be documented and reported in accordance with respective procedures. Method for documenting and reporting of findings will depend on the nature of the disclosure.

Disclosers are to contact the Citi Ethics Office if their identity has been exposed without their consent.

3.7 FAIR TREATMENT AND SUPPORT OF INDIVIDUALS WHO MAKES, OR ARE MENTIONED IN AN ELIGIBLE DISCLOSURE

When concerns are raised with respect to possible misconduct or unethical behavior,

Citi conducts investigations thoroughly, fairly, with discretion, and in a timely manner in line with values stated in the Citi Code of Conduct.

An individual that is the subject matter of a disclosure will be:

- advised of any referrals to a regulator or law enforcement as appropriate, subject to any regulatory requirements or obligations,
